

Word of mouth

think, listen, write

INTERNATIONAL POETRY PRIZE

2nd EDITION > 2020/2021

DANTE
in the earth and in memory

The moment that changes desire

PARTIPATION FORM

In particular, the GDPR provides the right to access, which allows the right to have confirmation of whether or not the treatment of personal data is in progress (art. 15 GDPR) and if it is, to obtain the information provided for by the law and to receive a copy as per legal conditions.

Furthermore, the following rights will be able to be exercised:

Amendments to incorrect personal data or supplementation of missing data. (art. 16 GDPR)

Cancellation (in conjunction with the right to be forgotten) of personal data should there be particular conditions and reasons, for example if the data is not necessary anymore for the initial purpose for which it was collected or if the treatment of the data is unlawful. (art. 17 GDPR)

Restriction of the use of the personal data, for example while waiting for its amendment and correction. (art. 18 GDPR)

Transfer of the personal data to another owner should the treatment be automated and based on an agreement or contract. (art 20. GDPR)

Objection to treatment for specific purposes, such as direct marketing. (art. 21 GDPR). Objection is always free of charge in the case of publicity, commercial communication or market research. The person concerned can also object to undergoing a decision that is based uniquely on an automated treatment, including profiling, that has legal or in any way substantial effects on the person. (art. 22 GDPR), unless the treatment is necessary to conclude or execute a contract or is based on consent or authorised by law. In any case, if the treatment is based on a consent release, the person involved has the right to revoke that consent at any time. Revocation of consent will not compromise the legitimacy of the treatment before the said revocation.

To exercise one's rights a specific written request can be sent via electronic mail, certified post, post or hand delivered to the Protocollo Generale of Spello's townhall, making sure to attach a copy of an ID document and of the fiscal code to the request. It is also possible to file a complaint to the Italian Data Protection Authority (Autorità per la Protezione dei dati personali - www.grantepriacy.it)

Under EU regulation 2016/679 regarding personal data protection as well as the unrepealed part of the aforementioned EU regulation, under law decree 196/2003 (Privacy code), the data provided by candidates will be stored by Spello's townhall administration for the management of the procedure in question, respecting the obligations of security and privacy expected. Supplying this data is necessary to fulfil the duties pertinent to the Award and for additional cultural initiatives promoted by other authorities who are involved in the organisation of this Award.

Participation in the Award automatically entails that the author gives permission to the publishing house to publish the works in catalogues, anthologies and other publications that aim to promote the event, without any profit.

For further information please call the telephone number: 0742 300034 (office hours) or write to the following address: premiopassaparola@comune.spello.pg.it

Data..... Firma leggibile